Museum of Natural History

In partnership with Autism Nova Scotia

Today I am going to visit the Age of the Mastodon exhibit at the Museum of Natural History. When I go up the ramp into the galleries, I will see a sign that shows me where the Age of the Mastodon exhibit starts. The sign looks like this:

I will walk down a hallway to the exhibit. I will see a big picture of a glacier and another sign for Age of the Mastodon and the end of the hallway. It looks like this:

When I turn the corner, I will see a mastodon skeleton and cases.

The exhibit is a safe place for me to see fossils and learn about mastodons. I can take pictures in the museum.

Some things will be in cases or behind barriers to keep them safe. I will follow the museum's rules and not tap on the case glass or go over the barriers.

There are some things in the exhibit that I can touch. They are not behind a barrier or in a case. I can gently touch them. They look like this:

There are seats in the museum if I need to take a rest.

When I have finished with the Age of the Mastodon exhibit, there is still lots more to see in the museum.
